

Reptile Descriptions

A Blue-tongued skink	B Black Mamba
Reptile Type:                      Lizard Location:                              Australia Habitat:                                Semi-desert Size:                                    About 50cm long Venomous:                            No Diet:                                     Omnivore Snails, Insects, Flowers, Berries  Endangered:                         No	Reptile Type:                        Snake Location:                               South Africa Habitat:                                Grassland Size:                                    About 2 meters long. Venomous:                            Yes Diet:                                     Carnivore Mice, rats, and squirrels  Endangered:                         No
C Leatherback Turtle	D Gila Monster
Reptile Type:                        Turtle Location:                               Indian, Pacific, Atlantic Ocean Habitat:                                Tropical waters Size:                                    Weighs about 450 kg Venomous:                            No Diet:                                     Carnivore Jellyfish  Endangered:                         Yes	Reptile Type:                        Lizard Location:                               Mexico, Southwestern US Habitat:                                Desert (wetter areas) Size:                                    Weighs about 2 kg Venomous:                            Yes Diet:                                     Carnivore Bird eggs, rabbits, insects  Endangered:                         No
E Komodo Dragon	F Nile Crocodile
Reptile Type:                        Lizard Location:                               Indonesian Islands Habitat:                                Hot dry volcanic islands Size:                                    Weighs about 90 kg Venomous:                            No Diet:                                     Carnivore Pigs and small deer.  Endangered:                         Yes	Reptile Type:                        Crocodylian Location:                               Africa Habitat:                                Lakes, Rivers, Swamps Size:                                    Weighs about 225 kg Venomous:                            No Diet:                                     Carnivore Fish, birds, zebras  Endangered:                         No
G King Cobra	H Anaconda
Reptile Type:                        Snake Location:                               India Habitat:                                Rainforest and grassland Size:                                    About 4 meters long. Venomous:                            Yes Diet:                                     Carnivore Other snakes and lizards  Endangered:                         No	Reptile Type:                        Snake Location:                               South America Habitat:                                Rainforests and swamps Size:                                    Weighs about 150 kg Venomous:                            No Diet:                                     Carnivore Wild pigs  Endangered:                         No

Reptile Descriptions